ABSTRACT

Since the beginning of time there has been educators in classrooms, one of their key concerns has been effective classroom management. Both the instructor and the students are negatively impacted when there is insufficient control of the classroom. The purpose of this research is to investigate strategies for improving kids' academic performance that can be implemented in primary school classrooms. Studies have shown that some kind of intervention has a positive impact not only on teachers and students but also on the atmosphere of the entire school. To ensure that each student in the classroom feels comfortable and at home, it is imperative that teachers develop meaningful relationships with each of their charges.
